

ELLIN BELIEVES BERLIN'S LOVE AND NAME WORTH MILLIONS LOST BY DISINHERITANCE

"ACCEPT ME!"
The above may give Irving inspiration for another song hit. How about "A Cable Man's Son-In-Law?"

HER HEART NO MORE.
Even Ellin's marriage does not rest in this man's hands, for papa made certain she took it.

IN CUPID'S ARMY
"Love Finds a Way," they say, and Ellin made it possible for that little worker in him.

HE'LL HAVE TO WORK.
Homestead days over, the former "Nigger Mike" entertainer will have to keep the scale balanced.

"ALL ALONE."
Irving won his daughter by songs, so she got an attack on Papa by the same route.

Read Brisbane's 'Today', Advice of Henry Ford

EVERYBODY ought to read Arthur Brisbane's "Today" column. He's a great writer and with a great news-gathering organization to supply him with material he writes what I like to read.

Dr. Crane also interests me in his articles in the Hearst papers, and, like millions of others, I like the cartoons of Jiggs and his wife, Maggie. They're great!—From an interview with Henry Ford.

WORK IS CRIME CURB

Commenting on the so-called crime wave, Dr. Crane said: "I wonder if, when the people talk so much about crime waves, they stop to ponder on the work that is being done."

Jordan's in Downtown Hub Transformation

The story of the transformation of downtown Boston from a section of stately colonial mansions constructed during the Revolutionary era to a bustling, modern commercial center was vividly portrayed to a large audience in the Assembly Hall of Jordan Marsh today by Miss Martha A. Shannon, in a continued lecture.

Another interesting feature of the program was a dance interlude of 18th century style, given by Miss E. R. Whelan. It was "Boston and Old Jordan" day in the famous Jubilee of the Jordan Marsh Company.

With the aid of stenographic notes, Miss Shannon, who has made a deep study of ancient Boston, carried her audience back to the days of 1811. She traced the march of time from the first settlement of the city, through the days of the American Revolution, to the present day.

As the story unfolded many historical facts of interest were revealed. How Jordan Marsh, from its inception in 1811, has grown into an institution beginning in a small store given during the period 1811 to 1926 to one of the largest commercial organizations in this city was dramatically related.

A host of memories including Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols, and many city and State dignitaries will be present tomorrow night at the Mechanics Building when the Grand Jubilee Ball takes place.

The affair is tendered to the workers and guests of Jordan Marsh Company and associates, workers of C. F. Hovey Company.

"Old Ship Day" was observed yesterday in Assembly Hall. A rally was held in the hall as the large audience sat, breathless, and gazed at the ships of a bygone day—the clipper ships that made the American merchant marine famous the world over, the most beautiful and speediest of their time as they came and went upon the large ocean.

And when the picture of Donald McKay, the East Boston shipbuilder, was flashed upon the screen, even before his name was mentioned by Dr. Park, the audience recognized the features and a wave of applause swept the hall.

As for the clippers themselves, these were the famous ships that in the gold rush days just following 1849, carried the first gold to California.

The newly Nightingale was shown, the most beautiful clipper ever built and named in honor of Jenny Lind, and there was the famous Flying Cloud, launched in Boston, and many another made the voyage in 30 days or less.

NAVY MAN SPEARS. Lieut. J. A. Lee, U. S. N., attended with courtesy the Constitution, after giving a tribute to the famous ship, which is very interesting history of American shipbuilding. Parker H. Kettle, of Southfield, gave a delightful talk on "Ships and Shipping of Olden Times," a subject he is thoroughly familiar with.

ROME'S CAPTAIN TELLS OF LIGHT ON THE S-51

Ordered Mate to Shift Course of Liner Shortly Before the Crash Came

Capt. John Field of the Italian liner City of Rome, although not at the wheel, considered himself in charge on the night the Havre crashed the submarine S-51, he testified today at his hearing before an Italian court.

The captain went on trial today in the court of the Italian Republic in Rome. He was charged with negligence in not ordering the mate to shift course of the liner shortly before the crash.

Also on trial in Third Zone Court, who was at the wheel of the liner when the collision occurred on the night of last September 24 off Cape Bon.

Captain Field testified that he had entered the liner of the City of Rome fifteen or twenty minutes before the collision and that he had seen a white light ahead. He did not know how long the liner was in the water.

Mate David said he thought it was the light of a fire burning in the water. The captain ordered the mate to move forward and to look out for a light, and ordered the mate to change his course to starboard. He admitted that a white light would indicate a craft moving to the westward.

1,800 DEGREES REGISTERED BY THERMOMETER

By Associated Press.
A thermometer capable of registering a temperature of more than 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit, has been developed in the Thomson research laboratory of the General Electric Company in Lynn, 1700 as announced today.

Instead of glass, which would crack at a much lower temperature, fused quartz was used for the stem and bulb of the new instrument. Mercury, which would boil and expand at such a heat, was eliminated and gold, one of the rare metals, was used.

A temperature of 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit is the maximum within the mercury-in-the-glass thermometer can stand, and such thermometers are inaccurate at high temperatures, according to the report.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY
Big Assembly Ball Tonight Marks Climax of Boston's Winter Social Season

SUMPTUOUS COSTUMES, glittering jewels, countless gaudily frivolous favors and the town's ultra smart set in purple and fine raiment in the order of the evening, when at the assembly hall, the season for Boston's fashionable reaches its zenith. It's the important affair of the Winter, so far as Bostonians of the Brahmin caste are concerned.

PRACTICALLY EVERYONE either gives or attends a dinner at the evening's introductory festivity. At that stronghold of the masculine audience, the Somerset Club, Dudley P. Rogers is host for large dinner group, the affair dons with his well known lavish touch.

AT HER FAIRFIELD STREET house, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer caters for dinner a group representative of the Thayer clan and its branches, the Pattons, the Biglows and the Whitings. It goes without saying that the grand dinner, an order of things social beauty, is undisturbed later in assembly arrangements.

MRS. THAYER'S assembly, therefore, comes down from Saratoga Lake for two days' stay just to put in an appearance at the assembly. She'll be as handsome a figure as this season's company boasts, gowned in exquisite taste and wearing prices as jewels.

MRS. AND MRS. ROBERT BAIL THONSTADT, one in one of the twenty-four guests at the Clinton Club, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fanning Ave plus a large dinner at their town house in Gloucester street, and the Philip S. Delmona like also play the hosts.

TRADITION SAYS that jewels built are famous on assembly floor, as in a winter attraction the Young Set ladies and their regular host, the Watsons. Their dinner and dance as a special privilege. The function honors Miss Ruth Baylies.

ALL IN PALE soft, two crepe Miss Helen Thayer, second daughter of the Harry Hill Thayer, 1100 of Marlborough street, made her debut in society at a party mid-Winter tea function under the wing of her cousin, Mrs. John L. Thayer.

THE JOHN THAYER party, 1100 Marlborough street, scene of the gay affair, was a number of guests. The scene, colors of gold will seem to the debaucherie of scenes of friends and relatives to pleasantly mark her formal advent into the bad arena.

SOMEWHAT THE portrait made was the coming out frock, its soft fabric following the long, long, long skirted lines as becoming to youthful figures. Velvet rombos were caught here and there about the skirt, beneath which peeped pink satin shoes.

MAIR JOHN THONSTADT in his own role taking that pleasant duty for Mrs. Harry Hill Thayer, who is in mourning wore a handsome creation of pale smoke gray silk and carried pink silk and coral pink shoes.

BERNARD THE SUMMER festival, in his own room, 1000 and for Mr. and Mrs. David McLeod Protheringham (Winthrop) Plimpton, 1100 following their marriage late today in St. Thomas' Church, New York. It's a ceremonial of three-fold interest—Lewes, Grafton and Boston—and stands pre-eminent in mid-Winter annals.

THE BRIDE, DAUGHTER of Edward H. Deane, and Miss Winifred Polson Deane, will be given in marriage by her father, Bishop Lloyd leads the marriage team and Miss Elizabeth Van R. Deane, as maid of honor, are chief supports.

FOR BRIDESMAIDS there is a specialty sister—Miss Natalie Merrill, Miss Jane Jackson, Miss Myronne Hymen, Miss Chadwick, Miss Samuel L. Protheringham, as best man, and Miss Elizabeth Van R. Deane, as maid of honor, are chief supports.

HIGHER MILK PRICES ARE PREDICTED

An increase in the price of milk in Boston and vicinity was predicted today by dairymen as a result of increased freight rates on milk which are to be effective soon.

The increase in freight rates will be passed on to the consumers, according to the producers.

A meeting will be held in Boston tomorrow by the New England Milk Producers' Association at which plans will be made for an attempt to compel the railroads to abandon their proposed increases.

CLUBS TO TEACH ABE LINCOLN IS HOW TO USE BACK; PEACE IN CITY HALL!

New Body Organized at the Chamber of Commerce to "Spread the Gospel"

New England revolt against the tendency of the anti-slavery industry is its evidence. With the formation of the Club of Commissioners of the Chamber of Commerce, which will take charge of the organization of coal clubs in all the various industries in the State in a determined effort to bring about the permanent use of low volatile bituminous coal, and not anthracite.

Such was the tenor of the meeting. Speakers were Chairman John F. Russell, of the Chamber of Commerce, and a committee on coal economy: Eugene F. Halford, fuel administrator, also a member of the committee; Rev. Henry L. Swain, and Rev. Charles P. Hall.

These speakers pointed out that the industry of New England was handicapped with expensive industries by New England residents using the coal anthracite. When other sections used bituminous.

Halford said in 1924 New England had spent $22,000,000 for coal, 12,000,000 tons of bituminous and $147,000,000 for anthracite. He estimated that bituminous cost $10,000,000, and $25,000,000 was spent on coal. Reduction of anthracite means a big saving. Others said incidents where families were saving $100 a year by the use of bituminous coal.

A special program to be held in addition to the races themselves in the skating rink, a skating that is better for the time being.

STATE CHAMBER MOVES FOR TOWN ADVERTISING

The Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce wants the Legislature to authorize it to advertise in newspapers, radio and other means up to one-twentieth of one percent of the annual income of the State for the purpose of advertising.

A bill to bring this about was filed today on the floor of the Legislature by Representative Elmer E. Spear of Everett.

mailed a public hearing on a matter "Mad" Nichols recognized as just. Now the three the war and peace men from Washington are installed once more in the Mayor's office and the state and state in art, no matter what they may be in the eyes of the community, can go down there.

You will remember that Mayor Curley's removal of photographs of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson, declaring he was to supplement them with Caricatures and Warren Harding, two well known Republicans.

Today the photographists were back and the Mayor stated with a grin that while he had intended giving the boys a square deal in the rearranging of his office, he figured he would leave them where they were in the first place and then there could be no row.

So now they hang in the old place, with Mayor Curley's picture beneath, temporarily, and a bit of the Washington Elm above.

MADE TO ORDER CHARGED

A NEW DISCOVERY

Reported in the Clothing Business

Some Department and Clothing Stores have recently announced that they have at last discovered that the Working People are honest. We reprint below an advertisement we published in 1910. Further comment is unnecessary:

"Our Charge System" was established for the convenience of the people, and is conducted on modern, progressive lines that meet the requirements of the man or woman of moderate means. It is not always convenient to pay spot cash, and the average working man or woman finds it impossible to obtain accommodation in the majority of the retail stores. Not because they are not honest, but because their name does not appear in the Blue Book, or in some Commercial Agency report. Nearly a quarter of a century of experience has taught us that the people are honest and can be trusted, and upon this basis is founded our Charge Account System. We will be glad to extend to you all the advantages of this up-to-date Twentieth Century method of doing business. It will enable you to have the clothing which you desire for yourself and family when you need it, and we will accept settlement in easy partial payments, at intervals and amounts most convenient to you. There is no extra charge of any kind for this accommodation. We guarantee our prices to be the lowest obtainable for equally good merchandise.

Never before in the history of amateur boxing has there been so much kick as the fans are getting these days. A lot of the blame is laid on the shoulders of the pros who are loafing and doing nothing.

The past boxing of the pros has been a failure. There has been no excitement, no interest. The fans are bored and tired of the same old, same old. They want something new, something different. They want a fight that will give them a thrill, a rush, a feeling of excitement.

SPORT EDITORIAL

ONE of the most popular of the various abstract conceptions of sport writers is the "fighting heart." The phrase has a sound and an implication which catches the public fancy.

The "fighting heart" has earned many an athlete through the discouraging aloofness of the public. It has enabled him to hang on long after his schedule was ended. It's a great thing, and pretty to talk about. The public enjoys and exalts an athlete if someone tells it he has a fighting heart, and the public loves to make a man for the slightest indication that he lacks that article.

But the public is not always an accurate judge of a real fighting heart. As in many other cases, it often has to be told. One thing it will not realize is the reaction its own frame of mind has upon the heart of an athlete. How many drops of life blood have been wrung from athletes hearts by the wilful, unconscious, heartlessness of that portion of sportsworld which wags the scales, pays the admissions, and starts the booms and bellowing.

What the public needs is a strong, permanent, fighting heart of its own.—STED CHANDLER

U. S. Senate Behaves Like the Ostrich

The Senate of the United States has abdicated its most effective function.

It refused Wednesday, by a vote of 54 to 16, to investigate the forces back of the propaganda that is trying to hurry the United States into the League of Nations through the back door labeled World Court.

No body other than the Senate can make such an investigation effectively. No investigation was ever more directly needed by the nation the Senate is supposed to serve.

Yet when Senator Reed of Missouri eloquently pleaded for the Senate to hurry for itself just what it is that is putting hundreds of thousands of dollars to waste out from the minds of America the words of the fathers against foreign entanglements, Senator Reed was charged with attempting to DELAY!

Delay! He could have had but one finer tribute.

They should have charged him with attempting to save this nation.

Senator Swanson tried to get Senator Reed to agree to a date for a vote on the World Court resolution. In other words, he wanted to make sure that the proposed investigation could not be effective. Naturally, and with the forensic indignation of which he is a master, Reed refused.

The Senate does not want to learn. It prefers to yield to Power and Paid Propaganda.

Make Nov. 11 a Holiday

Address to the Veterans Demands It

Massachusetts is one of a minority of the forty-eight States of the Union which have thus far failed to honor the Veterans of the Great War and celebrate the triumph of American arms that a proud and grateful nation owes to them by making November 11 a Legal Holiday.

Thirty-six States of the Union celebrate on that day the victory, and honor the victors that added new glory to Old Glory.

It is high time, as the Boston Evening American believes, for Massachusetts to join the majority of her sisters in the Union in celebrating Armistice Day and saving it from the desecration which it suffered last November at the hands of the Boston Internationalists. Their unseemly demonstration and their "Thou Shalt Not Kill" banners were not only an insult to the Massachusetts Veterans, but an injury to the fair name of the Commonwealth.

Let the Legislature at its coming session do belated justice to the Veterans sons of the Bay State and rebuke their traducers by setting aside the 11th of November as a legal holiday and giving it high place in the Commonwealth's calendar of patriotism.

Public sentiment will support the new holiday and insure its proper observance.

'Get Yours,' This Busy Year

And DON'T Forget the Way to the Savings Bank

In textiles, boots and shoes, paper, and all along the line of manufacture, New England faces more encouraging industrial conditions.

This is the opinion of officials of the Department of Commerce at Washington, as it also must be the thought of the New Englander at home who is at all observant.

The New England textile manufacturer is getting out of his rut. Old equipment is on its way to the scrap heap. Unprofitable lines are being abandoned. There has not been so much talk lately about the "vagaries of popular taste." For the new year, a large measure is promised in the production of rayon yarns and fabrics.

In Fall River, the outlook for the cotton mills is brighter than it has been for two years or more. New Bedford continues to rank FIRST in the UNITED STATES in the manufacture of fine cotton goods and fine cotton yarns. The Whaling City's fine goods have just completed another year which was better than its predecessor.

In a year that was not over prosperous for the shoemaker, deposits in the banks of Brockton increased $2,375,000. The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, employing 4,500 workers in Springfield, is operating several departments on a night-and-day schedule.

The co-operative savings banks of Massachusetts have just had the most prosperous twelve months in their history, assets showing an increase of $57,300,000!

In Maine, the new highway and railroad bridge at Bath will cost $3,000,000 or more, a large part of which will be expended for labor and find its way back into retail trade. Another $3,500,000 will be spent on the Central Maine Power development at Lewiston.

Here, in our own Greater Boston, more than $12,000,000 is being expended and thousands of workmen are employed on THREE great industrial developments which attract little if any public attention. All are situated on the banks of the Mystic, below Wellington Bridge.

On the Charlestown side of the river, just above the Revere Sugar Refinery, will be the largest lumber terminal in the United States, capable of storing from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 feet.

Further up the Mystic, on the same side, is the site of the Ford Company's new plant, which will cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 and furnish employment to 2,500 men.

The third great plant is the Mystic Iron Works, involving an investment of perhaps $4,000,000.

The employment situation throughout these Six States is IMPROVING EVERY HOUR.

It looks very much as if this were GOING to be the Happy New Year you WISHED it might be!

TAKING MEASURES IN ASTRONOMY

By Garrett P. Serviss, North Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

At the meeting of the International Astronomical Union last summer, several decisions were made with regard to the units of astronomical measurement that are of widest interest.

In the first place the kilometer was adopted in place of the mile. All readers should make themselves familiar with this small unit of length—namely, that is, to the mind of the astronomer, who finds it convenient to apply only for what may be called local measurements on the sun, the moon, the earth and other planets.

With a little practice one can get a mental picture of the distance called a kilometer as readily as of that called a mile. Roughly, a kilometer is about three-fourths of a mile. More accurately, five-eighths, and will more exactly 0.6214, or very nearly 2,240 feet, a value which is being 5,280 feet.

On Size of Earth

As the geographical or "surface" mile is assumed to equal the arc of the circle of the earth, it is not surprising that the circumference of the earth is 24,900 miles. The circumference of the earth, as the kilometer, is based on the size of the earth, and is, therefore, a constant length to one ten-thousandth of a circumference of the earth, measured along the meridian passing through Paris.

But owing to slight uncertainty about the actual dimensions of earth, the standard meter used is the length of a metallic bar carefully preserved in Paris, which is said to equal the length of the circumference of the earth, measured along the meridian passing through Paris.

The next decision of the astronomers was to use the astronomical unit for measurements in the solar system. This unit is the mean distance between the earth and the sun, which equals 149,598,231 kilometers.

But in using it the number of kilometers it contains is not considered, any more than in using feet or inches that make it up.

Thus the distance of Jupiter from the sun is about 5.2 astronomical units, or 780,000,000 kilometers.

It is to say, the "astronomical unit," or the half-diameter of the earth's orbit, viewed from a distance of one parsec would subtend an angle of one second. Now, in fact, the distance of the nearest star, Alpha Centauri, is about 4.2 parsecs, or 28,400,000,000 kilometers.

Ask This Question; Insist on an Honest Answer:

What kind of dispute could we have with any other nation that we would be willing to submit for adjudication by the World Court of the League of Nations which we would NOT be willing now to submit to the already existing Hague Tribunal for International Arbitration—and why?

YOU Americans who still believe in the wisdom of Washington's admonition "to steer clear of permanent alliances with every portion of the foreign world," should ask this question of your friends who are advocates of our entering the World Court back door of the League of Nations. You should insist upon a categorical answer and not be satisfied with any reply that avoids the real issue.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

PERSONALITY is the lamp with which the spirit, that shines through, lights up the smile, brightens the eyes and makes the face radiant.

It is the light that draws people to you—the magnetic current that seems to run around you and makes your presence felt in a crowd on a platform or through a point of your personality.

Personality is something that everybody longs for, but few people possess it. They have, but few of us retain after the age of ten.

Personality is not being LIKE anything or anybody—it is being different. It is just being yourself—your most honest, enthusiastic and interesting SELF. It is the real YOU, inside you, shining through. It is the candle inside the pumpkin.

PERSONALITY is your CAREER. IT IS YOUR LIFE. IT IS YOUR FUTURE. IT IS YOUR DESTINY.

Without personality, beauty, brains and even achievement are of little or no value.

PARADISE BY LAW ON THE WAY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

LAST night when I flopped into bed I felt like biting the bed-post.

Everything had gone wrong, from morning until night.

The world was going to the how-woes and the wicked were prospering mightily.

If I were Sultan of this sorry scheme of things, I reflected, I could shatter it to bits and remould it nearer to the heart's desire.

But I was not.

Moreover, in this land of democracy there seemed little chance of my ever attaining such a position.

I then remembered the latest reports from the legislative firing line.

In Hammon, New Jersey, so my morning paper had reported, three ordinances had passed a second reading of the Council.

They eliminated from the township of Berlin the cackling of hens, the crowing of roosters, the barking of dogs, the blowing of horns and the backfiring of automobiles.

Also the Port Arthur, Texas, the cracking of peanuts in public gatherings was abolished forever by a legislative decree.

I began to consider the pleasant possibilities.

Instead of being a Sultan all I needed to be was a Senator, if legislative power resided in my hands, so, like the Queen in "Alice in Wonderland," I could say, "Off with their heads."

What despotisms would take place first began to feel better already and snuggled down under the covers to contemplate.

First of all the "end seaters" disappeared from our fair land in a sweeping decree.

They are the gentle whittlings of the human species who persist in arriving early at public gatherings and sitting in the end seats of the row and huddle only with dour looks when others have to crawl over them.

Also the late-comers at public gatherings who come in with soufling feet.

Also postdrivers who walk along highways on the right-hand side of the road, where the speeding machines approach from the rear, instead of on the left-hand side, where they can see machines coming and for their lives' insurance.

Then come those who drive automobiles and out in close front of machines they pass and immediately slow up.

Next on the list came men who feel it beneath their dignity to whisper and speak to their friends during a lecture in a drawing, multiple monologue.

After this legislative outburst I felt a great deal more at ease with the world, and, if I remember right, like Adam Van Adam sank into deep dreams of peace.

IF YOU CAN'T MAKE A SPEECH BETTER NOT TRY

Don't do it in public the things you can't do well.

If you can't make a creditable speech, don't attempt it.

It is far better to decline than to make a failure of a speech.

It angers you at times when you realize that you have a greater fund of knowledge than most men, and yet you cannot tell what you know in a speech.

Those men who think before an audience—think "white standing"—and therefore they can bring to mind what they want to say. You are so nervous before a public gathering that you cannot talk.

When you appear before a crowd and make false statements, those who hear you are going to put a low estimate upon your array of matter.

Those who know you intimately and realize that you have more sense than your public speeches would indicate, can excuse you, but strangers will not.

Too many men take up valuable time at public meetings in rambling remarks and words leading to nothing.
